Annual Report 2015-16

Vikalp
Sansthan

PREFACE

Vikalp was established to introduce alternative life to women and girls which is discrimination free and violence free where everyone has equal opportunity to empower their own self. Vikalp was registered in 2004 in Barmer with the vision of eliminating gender based discrimination, child marriages and gender based violence which has high prevalence in feudal society like Rajasthan. In last one decade, Vikalp has addressed many issues of inequality whether it is caste based, class based or gender based by keeping peace in the central point. Vikalp has been working in Rajasthan on the issues of violence against women and education for girls since 2004. It has now completed 11 years of its work, which has given us varied experience and opportunities for learning.

This year we piloted new programs including Sports for Empowerment and Girl Friendly City, which were very successful. Our programs, especially Sports for Empowerment, have added new facets to participants' personality and opened new doors for the growth of girls. It also filled new energy in the intervention strategy. Vikalp is planning to expand these programs in the coming year.

Our different campaigns to stop child marriage (Our Daughters right, send Our Daughter to School, and Badhte Kadam) have been successful in creating a child-marriage-free environment and engaging youth and community members. Along with campaigns, different activities like creating and strengthening platforms, spreading awareness and capacity building of different stakeholders including youth, adolescent girls, and women was done to increase awareness in society towards child marriage and violence against women.

Our youth participants also took part in various workshops at the state and national level, which has increased their confidence and motivated them to work with zeal. We celebrated numerous holidays, including International women's Day, International Day of Girl, and Global We Can Day, My Childhood My Right etc to build women-friendly environments and to sensitize men, community leaders and other stake holders.

Local self Governance at the village level was sensitized by means of dialogue and involvement in various activities. We organized workshops for women representatives for awareness and capacity building to develop their leadership, increase their participation in panchayats and teach them to present women's issues in a government forum.

ABOUT US

Vikalp is a Rajasthan-based organization working in nine districts of western and southern Rajasthan since 2004. It was started by a group of young people who had a vision for the social, economic and political growth of Rajasthan based on their experience of working with communities in the most deprived and vulnerable areas of Rajasthan.

Vikalp is committed to creating a violence-free society based on equity, justice and peace. Vikalp works with youth and adolescents to address gender-based violence by enlisting their help as volunteers or agents of change. We create platforms through which youth can voice their opinions and integrate their needs with the process of social development.

MISSION

To create a platform where youth can voice their opinion and integrate their voice into the process of social development, thereby enhancing their capacities and co-creating opportunities for their meaningful participation in their communities' development leading to sustainable development.

WORK STRATEGY

- Create platforms and community-based organizations to identify, address, and solve local issues through common consent.
- Conduct public campaigns led by volunteers, change-makers, and our partners

- Create linkages between local government, administration, politicians and other stakeholders to address issues of Violence against Women (VAW)
- Motivate local community members and involve youth to monitor their neighborhoods through community networks that encourage the maintenance of a violence free society

Vikalp believes that violence against women is not only an issue for women; it affects the whole family and the society. VAW does not end with the empowerment of women. It is important to engage and sensitize men through regular interaction, training and workshops. Therefore, Vikalp not only works with women but also with men from all sections of the life including; teachers, police, shopkeepers, caste leaders, religious leaders, businessmen, auto rickshaw drivers, representatives of local governance etc. Vikalp mobilizes them for alternative behaviors and to act as a role model in their own family and society to reduce and remove VAW.

Girls Empowerment through Education

Re-Link Girls with Education

Vikalp works to empower girls. Education is one of the most keys to empower girls. Therefore, Vikalp every year organizes "Send Our Daughter to School" Campaign (Apani Ladali ne School Bhejo Abhiyan). Under this campaign Vikalp conducted meetings with cast leaders and community members to encourage family members to send their daughters to the school. With this efforts, we mobilized 140 girls who have dropped their schools since last 3 to 4 years to restart their education. Vikalp connected them to open school system, where they able to appear in secondary and senior secondary school exam.

Hamari Khushi Centers

To encourage girls to study further and to provide space where girls can come and solve their problems regarding their education and can read and write without any hesitation and disturbance, Hamari Khushi Centers were opened in 14 villages of Mavli block.

In these centers, Vikalp provide space to girls who are giving exams from open state and gave them subject wise coaching so that they can pass the exam. Hamari khushi centers were managed and run by our active volunteers of different villages who took responsibility to teach to the other girls of their villages. Total 25 volunteers took responsibility to run these centers”.

Capacity Building Workshop

In the year 2015-2016, Vikalp organized 4 capacity building workshops with young and adolescent girls to sharpen their capacity. The workshops were residential and Vikalp invited active members of Villages to participate in this workshops. The workshops were organized to empower girls and sensitize them towards various issues of girls and women and also to build their capacity to empower other girls too. In these workshop, Vikalp imparted knowledge on Government schemes, facilities of Aganwadi centers and how to strengthen Kishori group and right to education.

In the workshop, discussion on topics like gender, sexuality, sports, dreams and aspirations was done. We also encouraged girls to take ownership in their life and empower others too by linking them to education, counselling them to stop child marriages and celebrate girl child birthday in their neighborhood.

In the workshop, total 272 girls from 30 villages participated and took responsibility to change the world.

Meri Kushi Camp

Vikalp has worked for empowerment of girls through education, life skill, awareness of their rights and sports. For that we have successfully mobilize more than 1200 girls form 25 villages out of 40 villages of target area. Out of 1200 girls we are witnessing that many girls became able to raise voice for their own choices like not to marry now, continuing their education, outdoor sports, getting more knowledge etc.

In this course we organize a 60 days camp for adolescent girls on their demand. Where they learnt computer, English speaking, life skill and self-defense; and about their health, gender based violence and end child marriage etc.

60 adolescent girls out of 117 enrolled girls have successfully completed this camp. All the girls spent their own travel expenses.

“I want to study further, I will also teach other girls, I want to be self-dependent. Meri khushi has given to that opportunity; it has given me confidence to raise my voice against child marriage and other gender biases of society”- Fiza Banu (Translated)

This is what Vikalp aimed through Meri khushi (My Happiness) camp. This kind of confidence and zeal Vikalp wanted to develop among girls and it has succeeded in doing so. Vikalp had organised a sixty days day camp for underprivileged girls living in villages of Udaipur district. The camp was planned and executed in participatory approach where girls were equal stakeholders. Through the camp Vikalp has tried to polish the untapped talents that these girls possess. Believing in Education as a tool for social change, Vikalp aimed to reconnect thousands of school dropout girls with education and Meri khushi camp was the first step towards the aim. It has created a pool of leadership in these girls who are going to be the change makers of the society.

The “Meri Khushi Camp” keeps the foundation of empowerment process for girls who are not privileged enough to get polished their skills due to gender and class biases of society. In sixty days of the camp, girls have gone through transformation process; they have crossed the stage of victimhood to victorious. But the real success of the camp does not lie only upon the achievement of the girls but mostly upon the change in the attitude of their parents. And surprisingly, Vikalp has witnessed that change on the closing function of the camp when some of the parents promised to give full support to their daughters. Moreover, sustainability of the ‘change’ that Vikalp had dreamed of is only possible if there is continuous follow up is done with girls as well as parents.

Exposure Visit of Girls

Vikalp organized two days exposure visit of young and adolescent girls under Meri Khushi and Muskati Betiyan programs, in which 45 girls from 10 villages of Mavli block participated. The exposure visit was organized in Udaipur. During this girls were informed and exposed to different government departments and women leaders to inspire them. In Exposure visit, girls were interacted with District collector, District magistrate, Police Superintendent, Deputy Police Superintendent of Girwa block, Deputy Director of Women empowerment, Coordinator of Women's Short Stay Home.

Sorts for Empowerment

Vikalp is running Sports for empowerment program to empower girls by using sport as a medium of change. Sports bring confidence in girls, confidence of bringing change in the society. Sport also provides a gateway to initiate other big conversations about empowerment, girls' rights and alternative channels for growth and learning. Lack of sexual education, social taboo's and minimal community support means girls are often not equipped to fully understand or adequately cope with their changing bodies. Such changes often become a great source of confusion, distress and even shame for many adolescent girls. Sports provide a perfect medium through which girls can begin to gain a better understanding of their bodies. It provides them with a safe environment in which to seek and access information on ways to improve physical, sexual, reproductive and menstrual health.

Therefore, we consider sport as an important aspect of empowering girls. Vikalp Piloted "Sports for Empowerment" Project in 2014 which received huge success and proved as an effective strategy of developing future leaders. This 2015 – 16, we tried to expand our work in other villages too. Earlier "Sports for Empowerment" was introduced in only 4 villages which were "Dev Ji Ka Kheda, Jaivana, Khartana and Morath", this year we introduced this in other 9 villages too. In 2015-2016, we had 11 teams of Volleyball and Netball in which total 200 girls were linked to the sports.

On 30th December, Vikalp organized sports event at Falichada Village with collaboration of Panchayat with the objective of motivating each and every girl who is associated with the sports and cherish the a year long journey of playing on the field in spite of being criticized by communities and stopped by parents. It had aim of inspiring other girls too. Total 8 teams of different groups were participated in volley ball and 4 teams of kabbadi participated in the event.

Vikalp distributed trophy to winning team and 1st runner up team and distributed folder files to every girl who participated in the sports event. Total 98 girls participated in sports event.

Young generations realizes that both the gender should have equal rights and opportunities to lead their life and fulfill their dream can significantly reduce incidences of gender based discrimination and gender based violence with girls and women.

Anita's father is a traditional drummer and he goes to play drum in auspicious functions of the village and sometimes being an elder girl of the family, she accompanies her father in function so that they can earn few more coins.

Anita belongs to the so called SC community where education is a luxury for girls and girls with poor economic background has lot to face. During "Apani Ladali ne School Bhejo Abhiyan" (Send Our Daughter to School), Vikalp contacted school dropout Anita and motivated her to fill her form from Open School. So that she can help her father and family; and can complete her education as well.

Anita become regular in meetings of Vikalp and developed faith in Vikalp, she got inspired by many success stories of Vikalp and she started seeing world with new perspective and she realized that she was being discriminated for so many reasons. She participated in Meri Khushi camp which was organized by Vikalp in order to enhance computer skills, English skills, self-defense techniques and life skills which motivated her to take stand against gender discriminatory pattern of the society.

After being inspired, she took stand against child marriage in her own family, her friends tried to married off her younger sister and brother under the custom of "Aata-Sata". Anita could not bear this and explained negative effect of child marriage to her parents. After repeated arguments with her parents and family members, she was able to stop child marriage of her brother and sister.

Anita also started identifying cases of domestic violence in her village and firmly represented issues of domestic violence in front of Vikalp. She started working on issues of domestic violence, she along with her friends (friends from young girl's group) went to counsel families under the effect of domestic violence, firstly she explained ill effect of violence in house and then she firmly shared information of different domestic violence preventing laws, with her such efforts she could stop many cases of domestic violence in her house.

Vaishali was very upset due to societal pressure and taunt that she was facing for not having brother and being elder one of the family.

Vaishali had a dream of becoming a successful singer but due to all these factor she could not get courage to share about her dream in front of her parents, during that time Vikalp organized Meri Khushi center for girls where they can enhance their computer, English, self-defense and life skills which gave her vision of her life and motivated her not only to see dreams but also to fulfill her dreams.

Vaishali told her uncle about her dream and took his help too. At the end, she convinced her father and her father started teaching her but soon her father realized capabilities of her daughter and her desire and started supporting her dream too.

Vaishali's father was not able to teach her regularly because he had to stay out for his work for maximum days of a week therefore Vaishali demanded to get music classes for some professional person which was opposed by her family and relatives but vaishali didn't stop there, she again explained her parents about her dream and convinced them to send her in Udaipur for Music classes.

Om Prakash along with her friends counselled parents for sending their daughters to schools and explained them importance of education in their life, he also opened coaching center for girls voluntarily so that girls can come, read and write freely. Om Prakash took challenge of forming sports team and preparing field in Dev Ji ka kheda village along with Vikalp. He found one ground near to their village and prepared it as a field for volleyball match, he cleaned the ground by his hands only. Om Prakash also went to counsel parents of girls to send their daughters to play and he along with his friends organized village level meeting for sports team and also talked to girls as girls were also shy about playing sports in front of elders.
